- What are the 3 basic technologies needed to run a website?

1. Web hosting

2. Web design

3. Domain name

- How should local and server files be organized and what are the best practices for naming these files?

Local and server files should be organized in a folder that mirrors the organization on the web server. The files should use only lowercase characters and avoid spaces and underscores (use hyphens instead).

- What is AFS Space and what does it allow you to do?

The Andrew File System is the central file storage system for MSU students, faculty, and organizations. It allows members of the MSU community to create and maintain websites for their courses.

- What is the URL for the web space MSU provides for you in your AFS space?
